

Regulated Industries

For clients in a variety of industries regulated by the State of New Jersey, our Government Relations and Public Policy practice group, supported by a strong group of attorneys and professionals throughout the firm who follow specific industries and legal trends, carefully monitors legislative and agency developments to identify and pursue opportunities that advance our clients' interests, and then works to ensure their implementation. Likewise, we are watchful of legislative and agency initiatives that could adversely affect our clients' interests, and then work to modify or defeat their adoption. We also advise clients who participate in the political process through campaign contributions on how to most effectively make contributions within the confines of State and individual county and municipal pay-to-play and other election laws.
