Teamwork for Tomorrow:

Legal Strategies for Retail Success

In challenging economic times, retailers face numerous obstacles to success. These obstacles have been heightened by the consolidation of both retailers and landlords, the growth of class action litigation and the increasing sophistication of the e-discovery rules. In order to minimize and manage the risks associated with these relatively recent trends, retailers must team with legal counsel to successfully navigate this landscape. Crafting effective strategies which blend the business and legal considerations to both avoid and escape liability are keys to success.

ALFA International is proud to present its Fifth Retail Practice Group Seminar, Teamwork for Tomorrow: Strategies for Retail Success. Continuing the focus of prior seminars, the Retail Practice Group provides a forum in which representatives from the retail industry and their legal partners explore the central issues and recent trends which are currently presenting them with problems and exposures. The program will address both current and future challenges facing retailers and their legal counsel.

KEY ISSUES FACING REAL ESTATE LAWYERS TODAY – A Strand of “Take-Away Pearls”

This session will focus on issues commonly experienced by real estate lawyers involving retail leases, whether the client is a tenant or landlord. The discussion will include strategies for limitation of liability, both in claims between a landlord and a tenant and between a landlord/tenant and a third party. Through their own personal experience, this faculty will offer advice and strategies for avoiding and managing litigation based upon recent trends in case law, lease drafting strategies and other issues unique to the retail lease situation.

WHAT GENERAL COUNSELS REALLY THINK ABOUT, WANT, AND DEMAND FROM THEIR OUTSIDE COUNSEL
This program will provide a detailed insight into the needs, wants, and desires of in-house counsel when dealing with outside counsel in a transactional or litigation mode. Attendees will have a better understanding of the business and legal issues impacting inside general counsel, and why inside counsel places a premium on the efficiency of the process, which directly impacts time horizons and budgets. This session is intended to enable attendees to work more effectively with in-house counsel and better understand the role of outside counsel, which may vary depending upon the nature of the matter involved.
